Doing the Unusual With Color

By CHERRIE NICHOLAS

SO FAR as color is concerned, most startling changes are happening in the realm of fashion these days. It would seem as if designers were going almost revolutionary in their ideas on the color question, in that they are quite ignoring time-honored rules as to which color should go with which.

Since doing the unusual is made to count for chic in present-day costume design, our leading style creators are working most unexpected tones and tints and vivid hues together—a gesture which is accomplishing wonders in the way of achieving a newness for winter fashions which is as refreshing as it is fascinating.

The styles illustrated give some idea of the interesting things that are being done with color this season. There is, for example, the charming dress which the pretty blond, seated to the left in the picture, has on. This unusual gown for theater and restaurant wear combines black crepe with green and purple velvet, the latter crossed demurely over the shoulders and brought very low at the back of the bodice. Velvet trimming touches on crepe or satin frocks are quite the rage this season.

A most gracious afternoon gown is shown to the right. Its color combination is regarded as a forecast for spring. The body of the frock is done in pale blue velvet with dark brown velvet for the sleeves. The combining of velvet in two or more colors is an outstanding feature of current styling.

Centered in the group is one of the new so-fashionable guimpe dresses such as are front page news in style reports. The frock which is of black broadcloth is enlivened with a scarlet blouse of dusty pink shark-skin satin. French couturiers are expressing a special fondness for black with pink this season.

There is no lack on this winter's style parade of even more striking exponents of new-thought coloring such as, for instance, a Paris model which tops an evening gown of pale blue crepe with draped bodice section of gray red embroidered in silver dots. Another party frock, the skirt of which is finely pleated, is fashioned of chiffon in tones of flesh, peach and orange with a scarf of the bright orange.

Sometimes it is the sleeves which furnish contrast, then again it is the little cape or jacket, and the most recent approach to color effect is gained via the waist and skirt which differ in color as well as in material. One creator evolves a two-piece of wine colored velvet for the skirt with pink velvet for the waist-length bodice. A purple crepe dress takes unto itself a brown velvet jacket. Then there is the Paris frock of rough purple crepe which is topped with a jacket in bright fuchsia.

WOOLLY TIMES

Now is the time when children's clothes take on a woolly aspect. Woollyest of the woolly are the rough-surfaced coatings, the tweeds, the chinchillas, fleeces and Irish friezes, variously patterned and particularly good in the diagonal, writes Carolyn T. Lindner-Lewis in Child Life Magazine.

For the little girls there's no smarter coat than the straight from the shoulder type. Even their older sisters are all for the sweater coats, and the fitted model with the higher waistlines, emphasized by seamings and occasionally by a belt, are the exception that proves the fashion rule. The one-sided effects are accentuated by bandings and buttons; bandings and cordials form decorative motifs; and the wider shoulder effects are gained by drop yokes and ruffled sleeves.

In the above picture the side details, wide shoulders, and the ruffled sleeves, stamp this as a 1933 coat which may be worn with or without the belt. An unusual yoke gives a new look to the little dress appropriate for all fabrics. Separate one-piece palettes.

Jacket Blues

A black crepe dress with a guimpe of pleated white marquisette is charming for late afternoon and informal dinner. A jacket with three-quarter puff sleeves is made to go over it and button up the back, transforming it into a perfect daytime costume.

"PORK PIE" HATS NOT FOR SNIFFLERS

Those saucy little "pork pie" hats which perched daintily upon the heads of beauties of the naughty 90s are back again.

Turned up all around and often trimmed with tufts of fur, or feathers, these little hats are worn well forward, leaving the forehead and aft of the head exposed to the cruel winds of winter. Those smart women, who do not fear the cold, probably will wear "pork pies," but for those who snuffle there are other models.

There is one in particular which covers quite a bit of scalp. It really is a combination of two smaller skull caps, such as women have been wearing. One fits over the front of the head and the other overlaps and covers the back of the head.

One nice feature of winter is that no woman will be forced to wear a hat because her neighbor does. There will be fashions for all.

Lace Gowns for Evening

Wear Are the Mode Again

There has not been much to say about lace in evening frocks this season, but now they come again. Black and fling describe the laces that are present are seen.

Chanel, a die-hard when it comes to lace for evening, does win you over with an occasional heavy lace, but there are other models from her that are as frothy as those from Auguste Bernard and Vionnet. Whether they are ruffled or flowing, they are the only real diaphanous dress type presented this winter. More than that, they have the feminine quality of period style influence.

Contrasting Tints Smart for Dress Combinations

As this is a year of vigorous contrasts in almost everything, colors go in for contrast, too. The smartest 1933 dresses show combinations of shades, frequently ones that have never been used together before. There are strange reds and blues in exotic purplish shades. There are yellows and browns, purples and whites, oranges and browns. Any number of startling and amazing new combinations are being promoted.

ALLABEN.

Allaben, Dec. 31.—Mr. and Mrs. Felix Hughes entertained at dinner on Christmas Day. Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Moser and family and Miss Adelaide Hughes, R. N. of the Benedictine Hospital of Kingston.

Mrs. Edward West and Miss Esther Rieseley were in Kingston shopping on Saturday.

Mrs. Frank Tyler, Mrs. Joseph Garrity and Miss Esther Rieseley called at the home of Miss Jennie Griffin on Monday afternoon.

Miss Luella Garrity attended a Christmas dinner party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Mollott of Kingston.

One of the outstanding social events of the holiday season was celebrated on Saturday evening at the parsonage of the Free Methodist Church when a social was given by the Rev. and Mrs. Bonner by their friends and neighbors.

A very pleasant evening was spent and delicious refreshments were served. All departed expressing their wishes that another such event would take place in the near future.

Louis Bennett of Westkill is spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Decker of Fox Hollow.

Mr. and Mrs. William Lafferty have returned home after spending the holiday with Mr. and Mrs. John Lafferty in Bogota, N. J. and several days in New York city.

Mr. and Mrs. William Ocker, Jr. of Brooklyn, spent Christmas with his father on Allaben Heights.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Garrity and son, Harold, were guests at a dinner party celebrated at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Baker of Fleischmanns on Christmas Day.

Mr. and Mrs. Selon Myers entertained Mr. and Mrs. Rickett and daughter of Shokan, on Christmas.

The Rev. Mr. Bonner called on Mrs. Matilda Myers on Wednesday. Mrs. Myers is slowly improving at this writing.

George Kessler, who has been spending the winter months at his home on Allaben Heights, enjoyed his holiday dinner with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kessler, of Brooklyn.

Mrs. Selon Myers was a business caller in Phoenixia on Wednesday.

Harold Garrity and Ward Hummel, motored to Kingston on a business trip on Wednesday.

I. Delaney and son of New York city called at the Hotel Margaret on Monday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Webster motored to Albany and were accompanied back by Miss Mabel Van Keuren. Miss Van Keuren is visiting her grandmother, Mrs. Flora Van Keuren in Arena.

There is an epidemic of chicken-pox in this locality. Many of the children were unable to attend the Christmas exercises at the church and school on this account.

Mrs. Charles Ford and son, Donald, of Phoenixia, called on Mrs. Selon Myers on Wednesday afternoon.

Professor Drescher of Mt. Tremper called on Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Garrity at the Hotel Margaret on Friday.

William Rieseley, president of the Shandaken Coal and Lumber Company, is very ill at his home in Crosskill, N. J.

Leon Ruler of the firm of Garrity and Ruler, has purchased a new Stewart-Warner radio.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Tibbner of Chichester, and Mr. and Mrs. John Yerry and son of Rio Indian enjoyed Christmas dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Tremaine Hinkley at their home on Allaben Heights.

Mrs. C. H. Carter is spending a few days with her daughter, Mrs. Leonia Thompson, and daughter, Barbara, at their estate in Peck Hollow.

On Thursday evening, December 22, the annual Christmas entertainment was held at the Allaben school.

The children were well trained to their teachers, Mrs. McGrath and Miss O'Connell, who certainly gave much credit to the school.

Many of the children played many games, and their singing and speaking, but also a number of the local high school students participated. A large and appreciative audience attended. Many thanks are also due to the townspeople who helped to make the entertainment such a success.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Ford wish to congratulate them upon the arrival of their daughter, Annabelle Jean.

William Ocker was in Kingston on Wednesday.

Miss Esther O'Connell was a dinner guest of her aunt, Mrs. Claire Harper, of Richmondton on Christmas Day.

Mr. Edward Howe of Redford, a guest called on Mrs. Ed Miller on Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Whane entertained friends from Shokan on Friday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Garrity were given a surprise bridge and pinochle party at the Margaret Hotel on Thursday evening. Several friends of Mr. and Mrs. Selon Myers attended. All spent a very enjoyable evening.

LEIBHARDT.

Leibhardt, Dec. 31.—Preaching service will be held in the M. E. Church Wednesday evening, January 4, conducted by the Rev. Mr. Hastings of Kerkhousen.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ter Bush and children of River Edge, N. J., were pleasantly entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Prodd and daughter, on Monday.

Henry S. Donit spent the holidays with relatives in Whitefish.

The Christmas exercises held in the M. E. Church Thursday evening, December 22, were well attended.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hinkley and family, of Chichester, in preparing such a fine program. Thanks are extended to the townspeople who took such an active part in the musical program.

Mrs. Florence Slater of Kerkhousen spent the Christmas holidays with her mother, Mrs. Margaret Lawrence.

Archie Davis of New York City is spending on holidays with his family in this place.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Stokes and daughter, Jane, of Whitefish, were guests of the Harbison home Monday.

Mr. J. Harbison and son, Homer, and Mrs. Davis of this place, and Harold Kerkhousen of Baldwinsville, enjoyed their Christmas dinner with the Harbison family at the Harbison home Monday.

Miss Marie Krom is spending a week with her family, Mrs. Edna Quirk, of the Kerkhousen family.

John Oakley of Shandaken is spending some time with Mr. and Mrs. Raymond and family.

Miss Wilma Quirk has returned from a vacation at the Kerkhousen home. She is spending the Christmas holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Quirk.

Friends of Mrs. Roy Chisholm of Rockledge Center are sorry to hear of her illness. Much hope is wished for her speedy recovery. Mrs. Norman Quirk of Memphers is caring for her.

Archie Brown has returned home after being employed at Davis's of Kerkhousen Heights.

LEISURE-ERA BUILDING.

When the Technocrats or some other group have solved our machine problems for us, when mass production and consumption are harmonized, when leisure is a joy because there are incomes which enable everyone to make the most of it, we will discover that building styles have changed to fit the new era. In a recent report, the Committee on Industrial Relations of the American Institute of Architects has set forth some of these changes as it foresees them. There will be fewer skyscrapers and factories. There will be far more dwellings and more institutional buildings, such as schools, hospitals, churches. There will be more concert halls and theatres, although these will be scattered through small communities and suburbs instead of concentrated in the heart of great cities. With the increased leisure there will arise an increased demand for public and private swimming pools, gymnasiums, dance pavilions, indoor and outdoor recreational facilities of all kinds. These structures will be numerous and large, accommodating many persons. It is even possible that there will be beer gardens of the European type.

So much for buildings and playgrounds. Road construction will show a similar change. The architects believe that two types of highway will be built. There will be wide, straight roads for swift travel and heavy traffic. There will also be winding roads for pleasure driving—shaded, beautifully landscaped, adapted to the natural scenic beauty of the region, with lovely bridges and recreation grounds along the way. It is a fine dream, and one with good chances of coming true.

NEW YEAR VALUES.

"One has a strange propensity to fix upon some point of time from whence a better course of life may begin," wrote Boswell in the journal he kept of his tour of the Hebrides with Dr. Johnson. One has, indeed. It is an almost universal human propensity. Its existence gives New Year's Day its special significance. Thoughtful persons who wait the coming of the New Year with prayer and resolution and the gayer souls who celebrate the passing of the old year with noise and frivolity are alike fixing upon a point of time from whence they hope to begin a better course of life. It is a deep-seated, psychological need of the human soul to finish with one set of circumstances and start afresh at least once a year. Even if the new start is not really on a different path from the old, proceeding along it may be made happier or surer by the fresh attitude toward it.

Every day, of course, begins a new year. Every experience may mark a point at which a different course of life may begin. Yet the spiritual and emotional values of the calendar New Year's Day are great of all, when hope is born anew and opportunity may knock once more, and when we concentrate for a day on wishing ourselves and everyone else a Happy New Year.

DELINQUENT TAXES.

Uneasy feelings are stirred everywhere by a newspaper item like this, from Pierre, S. D.: "About 5,000,000 acres of South Dakota farm land were under the auctioneer's hammer today as county sheriffs held the annual delinquent tax sales. Many pieces of city property were sold for taxes." That means one-sixth of the assessed farm land in the state. It was predicted beforehand that buyers would be few and most of the land would not be sold. How could it be otherwise? There is probably not one state in the Union where cash buyers could absorb one-sixth of the land, even if it were sold at an unprecedented bargain.

Such sales, going on nowadays in a perfunctory manner almost everywhere, seldom serve any useful purpose. They do much harm, by ruining and discouraging a lot of property owners who are doing as best they can, and by keeping real estate down to still lower values than it is far better to let it rise. It is far better to let it rise. It is far better to let it rise. It is far better to let it rise.

PRISON METHODS.

Prisons in Great Britain, says a student of prison conditions in America and abroad, have experienced a decrease in inmates since the World War, while prisons in America have become steadily more crowded. Noting on this side of the ocean has increased, too, with shocking bloodshed and destruction. Riots in England are very largely rare. Some observers believe the difference is based on differences in temperament of British and American. Difference in handling of prisoners is probably more important. In England, reports the investigator, prisoners are classified according to mental ability rather than past offenses. There is a carefully worked out system of status and privilege which serves constantly as a strong incentive to good behavior. Men of high type are selected for prison officials. Guards receive careful training for their work. These two items are in strong contrast to the custom in our own country. In England, too, it is explained, more effort is made to fit prisoners for life after their terms expire. This cuts down the number of repeaters and stops many a first-offender from becoming a criminal. Doubtless the English system is not perfect, but it is certainly worth study, not alone for the sake of prisoners but for the sake of society as a whole.

ONE SIDED HEADACHE.

A large hospital let it be known that they were anxious to learn the cause of migraine—one-sided headaches—and were prepared to treat a number of these cases free of charge. It is reported that many hundreds of applicants sought this opportunity to obtain relief, such is the great number of individuals suffering with this miserable ailment.

Just what causes migraine is not definitely known; among the suspected causes are sluggishness of the liver, tiredness mental and physical, indigestion, and disturbances in the ductless glands.

Some years ago physicians began to suspect that certain foods were responsible. Just as certain foods are now known to cause asthma, hay fever, and some skin ailments.

Dr. Albert H. Rowe, Oakland, California, for over ten years has been working on the theory that foods cause migraine. While admitting that there are other causes of headache—eye strain, inflammation of the sinuses, infection from teeth, tonsils, intestine, and gall bladder, inflammation of the kidneys—he believes that a large number of cases of migraine are due to certain foods.

In giving the history of 130 private patients in which the outstanding symptom was headache, he states that nearly 70 per cent reported that foods or other substances had caused disturbances such as asthma, hay fever, hives, eczema and other conditions. About 43 per cent gave a family history of migraine, 23 per cent asthma, and 11 per cent hay fever.

Of the 130 cases, 109 gave all possible help to Dr. Rowe as he had them leave out of their diet certain foods which he suspected were causing the migraine. Of this 109 cases, 57 per cent secured good results.

The type of food or foods causing the trouble was discovered by the usual skin tests—making a small scratch on the arm and rubbing the suspected food substances into it. The cure or relief is obtained by omitting this food from the diet.

"Good results demand the active help of the patient for a period of weeks or months. The slightest break in the diet, especially the first few weeks, often brings on an attack of migraine."

By eating small amounts of the offending food the patient can gradually increase these amounts, and finally eat the food without fear of a migraine attack.

This means that all headaches, particularly one-sided headaches, should be investigated from the food standpoint.

Chapter 13
MARK IN A TANTRUM
"Mark, you'll kindly let me in," commanded Mrs. Lodely.
Her untidy bulk was planted outside her son's door and her loud voice held every indication of authority. But she did not look as though she expected to be obeyed. When the door remained contemptuously shut, she changed to a whine.

"Mark, it's not fair of you to go behaving like this! It's not fair to me and it's not fair to Babs. She'll be here directly—last thing she said to me last night was that she'd be round as usual. She'll talk about Thursday, the wedding and one thing and another, and you can't expect me to be the one to tell her you've postponed it again."

"Be quiet," requested Mark's voice, so close to the key-hole that she gasped, startled. "And go away." She stood with her foolish mouth gaping. Then her heart-beats slowed and she made off down the stairs. Not till she reached the bottom did she reflect that it was beyond all reason to be frightened. What was Mark, after all, but her own child? He ought to be ashamed—

But she did not go up to that closed door again.

She was pottering about in the little hall, muttering to herself, when there was a step on the porch. She lunged forward, knocking the umbrella-stand out of its niche, and opened the door to Barbara.

"How is Mark?"
It was the first question asked by anyone who came to Kings Barn. Invariably, Mrs. Lodely replied, in the vernacular of her youth—"Oh, nonsense dusty!" To Barbara Quentin, however, she said it with a difference. There was an evasion in it.

"He's had a bad day," Barbara's hands went motionless amongst the fastenings of her coat.
"My dear girl, I haven't seen him since you have! After you'd gone off with Farrell Armitage last night, I found the door shut and you know well enough no power on earth'll make Mark open a door if he don't want to! And this mornin' he lay low—without so much as a cup of coffee—and this afternoon I had to run out to make excuses for him at the bank and do some shopping, although I swear he went out somewhere after I'd gone, by the time I was back he'd locked himself in again."

Barbara took her usual chair by the fire. Mrs. Lodely, astride the hearth, scrutinized her more closely than was her custom.

Barbara laid her head suddenly back against the dark wood of her chair and closed her eyes. There were such shadows under them that Mrs. Lodely's habitual laughter twisted in her throat.

"Here, I say," as a thought struck her—"I believe I know what's gettin' you. It's about Mark goin' to town with this young millionaire, ain't it? Of course it is. But you know it! Mark gets taken up by a really rich man, well, it'll be the makin' of him. You surely see that!"

"I see that," echoed Barbara. She had not opened her eyes.
"Toppin' of you to take it like that!" breathed Mrs. Lodely. "Look here, Babs, why don't you and he get married before he goes to town. First thing Thursday mornin'!"

"I can't, Judy."
"I've a shrewd notion Mark's fixed up something of the sort with Mr. Frere. Miss Hoop saw him comin' down Upper Mallard lane, in a taxi, extravagant young devil!"

"I can't marry him on Thursday," Mrs. Lodely's jerking movement sent a rase slithering off a what-not.
"I've something I want to tell you," she said, "about you and Mark. Something to do with—money."

"What money, Judy?"
On many and many a night when her troubled thoughts had merged into troubled sleep, Mrs. Lodely had dreamed that Barbara Quentin returned to her with a new tack, Monday.

An unparalleled case of human brain resisting injury is found in the case of the Vermont railroad worker whose skull was pierced by a crowbar as the result of a premature explosion. Although the injury was so deep that no hope was held out for his recovery, the workman regained his health and lived for 12 years after the accident. A plaster model of the skull, showing the injury, and the crowbar that caused it, are now in the Warren Anatomical Museum at Harvard University.

Remains to Your World.
 Los Angeles, Dec. 31 (AP).—Aimee McPherson Hutton, estranged wife of a prominent Hollywood actor, died today. She would have been 32 in February on a day which she will be remembered by her mother-in-law, Mrs. Hutton. "I am going to be a great success," she once said. "I must be at the top of the world of law and order, and I must be a great success. I am sure, restore my life. I do not know how long I will live."

There is personal property valued at not to exceed $1,000. Stephen R. Vreeland is the attorney.

Judge G. D. B. Hasbrouck is the executor under the will of Elizabeth J. Hasbrouck, who died in Kingston November 3, leaving personal property valued at not to exceed $10,000. The following bequests are made: John M. Hasbrouck, nephew, $5,000; Isabelle Sumner Van Dyck, $3,000; Irene Hasbrouck, $4,000; Mary Jane Hasbrouck, $4,000; Margaret B. Hasbrouck, $2,000; Mary C. Alliger, $2,000; Adeline Wells, $2,000; Dr. Walter D. Hasbrouck, $4,000; remainder of the estate to Gilbert D. B. Hasbrouck, nephew. The executor is directed to invest $300, income to be used for care of burial plot of testator's father in the Marlborough cemetery. The will was executed in July, 1918.

SHOKAN.

Shokan, Dec. 31.—Walter Naughton of New York city drove to Shokan, Thursday, and called on a number of his friends in the village. Mr. Naughton was spent several weeks here last summer, was accompanied by three friends and the party planned to visit Woodstock, before returning to the city.

The following Shokan students of Kingston High School have been enjoying the Christmas vacation at their homes: Barbara Tueling, Verna Giles, Robert Brown, Irvine Weeks, Alfred Rose, John and Thomas Lawson. Of these students, all are graduates of the local public school except young Brown who attended the grammar schools in New York city.

M. Duryea, superintendent of plants for the Shokan, Woodstock and Phoenix telephone district, has been doing some work at the local telephone central during the past few days. Other telephone company activities in this section recently included the placing of several new trunk line poles between this village and Clarendon. The poles, like all modern replacements of this nature, are of southern pine treated with a preservative throughout. Some of the older poles, cut from woodlots in Shokan vicinity, are standing up well after 20 years of service. Even dead chestnut trees of a size suitable for telephone construction purposes are being used around here any more, though there are many thousands of these trees of fence post size still standing. It is remarkable what a large number of the chestnuts have persisted in remaining upright through the 15 years that have elapsed since the blight struck the last one of them.

Marion Jones of Kingston was numbered among the business callers in Shokan on Tuesday. Marion, who is a son of Spencer Jones, the well-known Department of Water Supply foreman of Ashokan, is considered one of the most skillful radio repairmen in the county.

On December 31, 1913, the Ashokan business commission No. 1 was continuing the claim of Charles H. Wedner of the west side of the creek for his boarding, apples and cider mill business. In the course of the session the learned and indefatigable William McMurtrie Spencer, counsel for New York city, complained of the condition of the Weidner account book and thus enabled Judge Clearwater, who appeared for the claimant, to interpolate one of those countless witicisms with which he was wont to relieve the tedium accompanying the condemnation proceedings of waterworks days. Said the judge, "My dear Speer, you should remember that Aeschaz reconstructed the bipedoceros from an animal fin, and surely a man of your superlative talent can reconstruct Weidner's account from these fragments." Mr. Weidner, who was the father of Fred Weidner, a well-known farmer of the west side of the reservoir, had one of the most productive places in the town of Olive, his apples especially being famed for their excellence of quality. Burton Cudney of Pine Hill, a former resident of Ashokan, is spending a few days in the village at the home of his aunt Mrs. Fred Adams.

Paul James has joined the ranks of the local stove-wood dealers and has bought several orders from people in Kingston and other communities. Henry Wells is chopping for Mr. James one of the Winchell woodlots. Paul has all the necessary equipment for conducting a successful wood business, including a buzz saw mounted on a truck, a heavy team of horses, two wagons, a set of 600 stumps and a Hudson truck for delivery purposes.

Mrs. Mary Tremont of New York city is numbered among the holiday guests at Mr. E. P. Nadar's farmhouse on the banks of the Hudson. She spent considerable time here last summer and has also visited this section upon many previous occasions.

A number of people here have planned to attend the grape supper in the neighborhood village of Mr. Tremper this evening. Several of the most prominent and active members of the Mt. Tremper Grape Growers' Association will be present.

A real estate transfer of December 31 was that of John Ennis to Oranzo Giles. The Ennis family were large property holders on the west side of the Esopus Creek and Mr. Giles for years before the coming of the waterworks conducted a store and repair shop in the old village. Later, Mr. Giles put up a building on the south boulevard at Broadhead.

Alonso Davis continues to do a good trucking business between Olive, Bridge and Kingston with Shokan as his main stopping point. Alonso is nearly always on the job and his big truck never misses a day on its trips. Isaac Jones of Ashokan, frequently does his truck running the express truck to and from Kingston.

Oscar Carleson, the genial veteran telephone company's construction foreman, who for 20 years preceding his serious accident was in the village the other day and called in to say hello to some of his friends at the village center. Oscar has long been famed as a hustler and an employee faithful to his trust in every emergency.

WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR COMING WEEK.
 Following is the weather outlook for the week beginning Monday:
 North and Middle Atlantic States: Snow or rain over north portion Tuesday and snow or rain over north and rain over south portion about Friday; cold at beginning of week; rising temperature Tuesday; colder Wednesday; warmer Friday and colder at end of week.

Woman Welfare Worker Slain.
 Cleveland, Dec. 31 (AP).—While police hunted the unidentified murderer of a woman welfare worker today, friends disclosed she had lived in fear of just such an attack as was committed yesterday when she was abducted and slain within a space of 40 minutes. The victim was Mrs. Ruth Steese, 26, a bookkeeper for the Cleveland Society for the Blind.

Local Death Record
 A first anniversary Mass in memory of Michael McGarrell will be held at the Holy Name Church in Wilbur on Monday morning at 7 o'clock.

Alexander Lerman, who was an assistant district attorney from 1915 to 1930, died Sunday, December 18, at his home in New York city, aged 50 years. Mr. Lerman was a nephew of Mrs. Rose Appel of Adel street, and a former resident of Kingston. While serving as assistant district attorney in New York city he made a record of handling charity cases, and served as counsel to 500 in child support cases.

Martin F. Noone, a well-known resident of the lower section of the city, died this morning after a prolonged illness. He was for many years a faithful employee of the Hillerbrand Dry Dock Co. but has been incapacitated for some time. Mr. Noone is survived by his wife, who before marriage was Bridget McGarrell. The funeral will be held from the parlors of James V. Halloran, 44 Broadway, Tuesday morning at 8:45, thence to St. Mary's Church where at 9 o'clock a Mass will be offered for the repose of his soul. Interment will be in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery.

The remains of Capt. Richard A. Van Loun, a former well known resident of this city, who died in New York city Thursday, was

CHRISTMAS PROGRAM AT "OUR SCHOOL" "Our School" at Stone Ridge celebrated the closing of its doors for the Christmas vacation on Friday, December 23. Master Van Lear Woodward opened the entertainment with a prologue of welcome to the audience.

Carol singing was the hub of the day's program. Horized by a star-set blue background, the white, surplised school knelt about an illuminated creche and sang the customary hymns of Christmas Day.

When Lutheranism spread through northern Europe, the cathedral at Trondheim became the center of that faith. Reliquaries of St. Olaf and St. Augustine, which had been gathered in the cathedral, were sent to Copenhagen to be melted. The bones of St. Olaf were taken from the altar and buried under the cathedral floor.

+ International + Walther League

The regular meeting of the Immanuel Young People's Society will be held Tuesday evening, January 10. At this meeting the election of officers will take place. Every member is urged to attend this meeting. Due to the absence of the Rev. Mr. S. M. Kevan and Mrs. Mary Moody, Junior choir, "A Child this Day is Born"; boys, "Good King Wenceslas"; choir, "The Christmas Song"; poem, "Christmas Worship," read by the pastor; choir, "And There Were Shepherds"; Junior choir, "What Sounds of Music!"; adult and Junior choir, "Noel"; hymn, "Silent Night"; Benediction; Perry Berago accompanied nearly all the singing with the violin.

CHRISTMAS PROGRAM AT "OUR SCHOOL" "Our School" at Stone Ridge celebrated the closing of its doors for the Christmas vacation on Friday, December 23. Master Van Lear Woodward opened the entertainment with a prologue of welcome to the audience. Carol singing was the hub of the day's program. Horized by a star-set blue background, the white, surplised school knelt about an illuminated creche and sang the customary hymns of Christmas Day.

Miss Anne Fessenden as the lovely kneeling Mother Mary in the picture sang, "Away in the Manger" and Miss Betty Hasbrouck recited Phillips Brooks' "The World Has Grown Old." One of the most picturesque features of the occasion were the horn solos of "Silent Night" and "Oh, Come All Ye Faithful" as rendered by Master Gerow Smiley. A varied program followed the carol singing: A violin solo by Miss Violet Dunbar. Christmas recitations by Miss Rachel Smiley, a Tick-Tock chorus by Jimmie Hanstein, Suzanne and Wingate Hart, Philip Reading and Ray Elmendorf, Mike and Minnie Mouse by Eleanor Kinz and Violet Dunbar, and a piano solo by Betty Van Winkle. The day topped off with an amusing dramatization of the well-known Christmas story, "The Little Engine That Could," which required all the ingenuity of the school plus an imposing aggregate of cartons from Rose and Gorman's, as well as the acting abilities of the remainder of the school: Miss Jane Pearson, Miss Alice Dunbar, Master Mike Petersham, Master Howard Van Winkle, Master Francis Smiley, and Miss Eva Dunbar and Master Matthew Hasbrouck, Jr. A general distribution of gifts from the school Christmas tree sent the children happily home for their holiday.

WEST SHOKAN.

West Shokan, Dec. 30—Mr. and Mrs. John Henriksen, Jr., and daughter, Patsy, of New Jersey spent Christmas week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Henriksen of Main street. During their stay, Patsy called on Dorothy Dwyer and had a fine time playing with the teddy bear and new doll carriage which Santa left for Dorothy.

Harry Butler, 15 year old boy from Flushing, Long Island, is spending Christmas week with Mr. and Mrs. William Beesmer at "Pine Tree Cottage," Brodhead.

Donald F. Bishop had his Chevrolet overhauled on Wednesday by expert garage-man, Pete Crawford, of Olive Bridge.

Charles Dwyer with the able assistance of his father and brother, Bernard, was lucky enough to get his wood all cut and piled before the recent snow storm.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Whittier of Tuckaway Farm are still at their city home in Port Washington.

Mrs. Mae McGreevy of Constable Heights called on Mrs. Philip Dwyer one day recently.

Miss Cornelia Davis of West Shokan Heights spent Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Schmoekel of "The Green Hen" at North Main Street Heights.

The town fathers sat in busy session Wednesday and Thursday in Olive Bridge Hall balancing accounts of the year.

There was a large representation of Olive residents in attendance at the funeral of Millard Davis held in Kerhonkson Wednesday afternoon. There was also a group present at the burial service later in Cold Brook rural cemetery.

Seeing the New Year in will be a feature at the Olive Bridge I. O. O. F. dance Saturday night. Constable's Royal Delawares will present a very special and appropriate variety program for the occasion.

Chase Davis of West Shokan Heights, who was one of the long list of local grip victims, is able to be about again and doing chores. These grippy colds seem to pack a mighty unhealthy wallop, hit whom

That TECHNOCRACY Question

No. 4—Machines and Debts

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fourth of six articles giving a new insight into Technocracy whose prediction of possible economic collapse started a farflung controversy. The articles also present other statistics pertaining to displacement of men by machines, energy consumption, debts, and other points involved.

By J. R. BRACKETT
(Copyright, 1932, By The Associated Press)

New York (AP)—Debt, says Technocracy, is crushing the life out of the economic system, burdening the machine so that it cannot produce to the full, giving dictatorial power to the bankers—"debt merchants," as Technocracy calls them.

Debt is overwhelming, Technocracy holds, because it increases almost constantly and thus requires the nation to pay an ever-growing burden of interest, while, in the meantime and as at present, profits do not increase proportionately. Debts are "fixed charges," varying little, while income goes up and down violently.

Technocracy, a group of engineers at Columbia university working under the direction of Howard Scott, is delving into the effect of the machine on the present economic system. Its findings have led Scott to predict the existing structure's collapse unless drastic changes are made in the methods of control.

Debt Base Of Price System

Debt is a major aspect of Technocracy's theories, perhaps the major aspect, because debt is the base of the price system, and the price system is the general name given this and any other political entity which uses a commodity—gold in this instance—as a measure of wealth, and which seeks to produce for profit instead of for use.

Technocracy estimates that the total of interest-bearing debt—mortgages, bank loans, bonds and so on—in the U. S. is about $218,000,000,000; that the fixed charge on this debt is equal to more than half the nation's present income; and that this debt has been increasing faster than production.

Other Statistics Differ

Other statistics do not exactly agree, however. Computations by Dr. Ragnar D. Naess, director of research for Goldman Sachs Trading Corp., show that total interest-bearing debt in the United States in 1931 was $156,615,000,000; that it was $160,528,000,000 in 1930; $161,448,000,000 in 1929, and $158,130,000,000 in 1928. These figures compare with Technocracy's only published figure of $218,000,000,000.

Is the nation's interest-bearing debt a burden which the present social system cannot carry? Technocracy, estimating the debt at $218,000,000,000, says debt is a major factor which will force drastic changes in existing methods because it is frustrating mechanical advance.

Dr. Naess says this debt is a crushing burden but he doubts that it should be given the stress laid on it by Scott.

Debt increased about 38 per cent between 1923 and 1931.

Statistics of the National Bureau of Economic research for the years 1922-1929 show that physical volume of all production increased 34 per cent. Such figures are not fully comparable but serve to indicate the difference in the amount of change.

Since the depression started, production has declined considerably more than debt, but this always is true in depressions. Dr. Naess points out that large amounts of debt are defaulted in depressions, and that such is certain to be the case in this one.

This check, Dr. Naess believes, is more or less automatic, and while such defaults or other means of reducing the debt become more difficult as a society ages, it is impossible to say that debt alone or even primarily would be responsible for a system's collapse—because it can be and is in fact reduced. It is rigid, Dr. Naess says, but not quite so rigid as Technocracy holds.

Dr. Naess calculates that 9.34 per cent of the national income went for the paying of interest on the total debt in 1923; that it was 10.72 per cent in 1925; 11.62 per cent in 1929; 18 per cent in 1931 and probably between 23 and 24 per cent in 1932. This compares with Technocracy's assertion that half the national income goes for the debt's fixed charges.

Bandit, on Parole, Pays Bank $4,500 He Stole

Fresno, Calif.—Dean Sears, manager of a branch of the Bank of America, and Sydney S. Clark, field inspector, were conversing in the bank's Los Angeles office when C. H. Cochran, former cowboy, stepped in, shook hands with Sears, and handed him $4,500 in currency. Cochran said:

"I guess you don't remember me. I came here three years ago with guns and held up your bank. I was arrested and sent to San Quentin penitentiary, and I just got out on parole."

"While in prison I inherited money, and I came here immediately to pay back what I stole and let my friends know I'm square with the world."

GIRL SCOUTS

ULSTER COUNTY COUNCIL

MRS. G. W. ROSS, Commissioner.
MISS MILDRED H. EATON, Director.

With the Girl Scouts at Christmas.

One of the ten laws which are the foundation of Girl Scout principles is "A Girl Scout's duty is to be useful and to help others." During the Christmas season the Girl Scouts found ample opportunity to put this law into practice. One troop reconditioned toys; what a pleasure it was to make the dolls beautiful and put the other toys in working order, imagining as they worked how happy would be the expressions of the children when Santa bought these toys to them.

Most of the Kingston Troops sang carols in the Kingston, Benedictine and TB Hospitals, also such institutions as the Sahler Sanitarium, the Home for the Aged, City Home and the Industrial Home for children.

We are sure that these happy youthful voices did bring the joy of the season wherever they sang.

It was in the Children's Ward of the Kingston Hospital a few days before Christmas, a child was asked if he was going to be there for Christmas. He replied sadly, "I hope not because I don't think Santa comes to hospitals." But when a number of Girl Scouts came in and trimmed a big tree with lights and toys, even putting old Santa himself on the tree, the same youngster changed his mind. It was with very willing hands the girls trimmed a tree on each floor and ward. Another troop also did Christmas service for the hospital. They made favors for the patients' trays. Following another Girl Scout law, "A Girl Scout is thrifty," the materials were obtained at little cost, small ends of pine branches were placed in corks to simulate small Christmas trees in pots. Trimmed with barberry berries, red ribbon and green paper they gave a Christmas appearance to the trays.

Many troops provided baskets of food for needy families. Some of the girls who had delivered the Thanksgiving baskets were so impressed by the need that they were anxious at Christmas time that these same families be given generous baskets. Last but by no means least we have heard from several Girl Scout mothers that since their daughters have taken their badge work relating to the home they have been of great assistance to mother. Certainly mothers do appreciate the Scout daughter's assistance with the many duties necessary for Christmas preparation.

There are probably other Girl Scout services which have not as yet been reported to us. It is indeed a great satisfaction to all engaged in Girl Scout activities to realize that to our Girls, Christmas did not only mean having a good time and receiving gifts but giving the joy of the season to others.

flooded the post office last week, have ceased.

Bernard Dwyer has been busy himself of late, drawing various sketches, limiting himself to 15 minutes for each one.

Miss Florence Kelder is spending the Christmas week with her mother, Mrs. Addie Kelder, of West Shokan Heights.

Mrs. Blanche Bess Rodney and son, Julius, of Long Island City, are spending a delightful week's vacation with Mr. and Mrs. James Burgher at Maple Dell Farm.

Among prominent week-end Christmas guests were a family group comprising Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Kelder of East Orange, N. J., Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Smith and Mrs. Florence Warren of Roselle, N. J.

Judge and Mrs. Lester S. Davis of Main street, also Henry Winchell of Samsonville were entertained as dinner guests on Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Marshall of Olive Bridge.

Winchell and Mr. Marshall attended the town board meeting held in the I. O. O. F. Hall. During her husband's absence Mrs. Marshall fulfilled the duties of mail carrier.

Mr. and Mrs. James Westbrook have returned to their home in Olive Bridge, after a two or three months' trip to California. They visited many interesting places while touring the western states.

Mrs. Mary Moore and daughters, Mrs. Genevieve McLean and Mrs. Farmer Edward Winkler delivered a load of cornstalks to a customer in Port Ewen on Thursday.

Mildred Allen, and small daughter, Edith, of Samsonville, were pleasant-they may, and but few have escaped.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Gessner of Olive Bridge motored to Kingston on Wednesday evening, where they attended a show in company with their daughter, Edna.

Mrs. Arza Bell made a farewell call on Mrs. Jane Ann Burgher last week before leaving North Main street to go to the home of her son, Steward Bell, of Poughkeepsie. She expects to spend the remainder of the winter there.

Mr. and Mrs. John Marshall and son, Harry, of Olive Bridge, were dinner guests on Thursday evening at the home of Supervisor and Mrs. Chester A. Lyons of Ashokan.

Mr. and Mrs. Egbert Boice of Watson Hollow entertained Mr. and Mrs. Dorville Boice of Olive Bridge on Christmas Day.

Mrs. Mitchell of Olive Bridge has recovered nicely after her recent operation for appendicitis in the Benedictine Hospital.

Trooper Raymond Dunn returned to Phoenixia on Tuesday morning, after spending the Christmas holidays at his home in Binghamton.

On Tuesday evening Bernard Dwyer was a caller at "Pine Tree Cottage," the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Beesmer of Brodhead.

Mrs. Katherine Sherman spent the week-end before Christmas with friends in Kingston.

Miss Rose Scari of Main street called on her schoolmate, Cornelia Davis, of West Shokan Heights on Wednesday.

Postmaster William V. Colange can now breathe a sigh of relief, for the multitude of Christmas cards and other holiday mail which nearly "Tomorrow I rise with the sun," Puff declares.

And when I've heard all, then I'll pick out the best and make it my own—just to break with the rest."

HIGH FALLS.

High Falls, Dec. 31—Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Gheer spent Christmas Day in Kingston with the Vondberghs.

The Ladies' Aid Society will hold its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Gansse Beach on Thursday afternoon of next week, at 8 o'clock. All are cordially invited to attend the meeting and enjoy a social hour.

John Ham's brother is visiting him.

The Ladies' Aid Society got up a Sunshine Box for Mrs. W. L. Krom and Mrs. Festus Teaple. The president of the society presented this gift to Mrs. Krom on Monday. She was very pleased and appreciated it very much. Mrs. Krom was always a very faithful member of this society and this Sunshine Box was to show in a very small way their appreciation of her faithful service. The gifts were not costly but the saying of Lowell as taken from the Vision of Sir Launfal may be applied here. "Not what we give, but what we share. The gift without the giver is bare."

Mrs. Mary Delemeter and Miss Mary C. Van Wagoner motored into Kingston on Thursday with Mrs. Preston Church and spent the day. It was a most beautiful day and all had a very pleasant time visiting friends and relatives.

Clarence Howard will have charge of the New Year service in the Reformed Church on Sunday. Everyone is most cordially invited and it is hoped there will be a good audience present.

OH Graves Found

Believed to be five thousand years old, a grave has been discovered on a farm near Orpe, Scotland. Dr. Graham Callender, director of the National Museum of Antiquities at Edinburgh, reports that the body had been placed in a crouching position, as was the custom during the early Bronze age, possibly 1900 B. C.
